The Punjab which had done most in contributing to the war effort was the most adversely affected of the provinces. In addition it had the misfortune of being ruled by Michael O’Dwyer, one of the worst specimens of Morley’s Tchinovnicks. The Rowlatt Bill had, as it were, sprinkled salt on the province. On the 6th April hartals were staged in Lahore and other towns. The Governor reacted fiercely. He told the provincial Legislative Council in a minatory speech: “I, therefore, take this opportunity of warning all who are connected with political movements in the province that they will be held responsible for the proper conduct of meetings which they organise, for the language used at, and the consequences that follow from such meetings.” The Tribune stigmatised the speech as blazing indiscretion. On the 10th of April on the receipt of the news of Gandhiji’s arrest a procession was taken out at Lahore. The police fired upon the student procession. The meeting was subjected to shooting. Three local leaders were deported.

But what happened at Lahore pales into insignificance compared with the horrors at Amritsar. Here protest meetings had started in February. On 23rd March was held a meeting in support of the Satyagraha movement, followed by another after 6 days to announce and explain the hartal on the 30th.

The immediate reaction of the authorities was to prohibit one of the leaders, Satyapal, from speaking in public. This did not frighten the citizens and on the 30th a hartal was observed and a meeting was held in Jallianwala Bagh. On the 4th April another leader, Saifuddin Kitchlew, was served a similar notice as Satyapal and a number of others were restrained. On the 6th a complete hartal was observed but peace was maintained. The Deputy Commissioner sought to test a mob and immediately asked for additional military force. On the 9th April there was a Hindu festival and large processions of Hindus, Muslims and Sikhs streamed through the streets. Gandhiji who at the invitation of the leaders was travelling to the Panjab was stopped at Panawal and prohibited from entering the province.

On the next morning (10th April), Kitchlew and Satyapal were deported from Amritsar. The two incidents infuriated and provoked the people. Mobs gathered to see the Deputy Commissioner and entreat him to cancel the orders. The military pickets tried to stop them from moving towards the Deputy Commissioner’s House. The mounted police then fired on the crowd causing some deaths and injuries to many others. The mob was filled with anger. There was a hartal. The province was feeling a sense of deep frustration and Gandhiji’s call had an electrifying effect upon the people.

Already many meetings of protest had taken place all over the province. On the 6th April hartals were staged in Lahore and other towns. The Governor reacted fiercely. He told the provincial Legislative Council in a minatory speech: “I, therefore, take this opportunity of warning all who are connected with political movements in the province that they will be held responsible for the proper conduct of meetings which they organise, for the language used at, and the consequences that follow from such meetings.” The Tribune stigmatised the speech as blazing indiscretion. the official version—died, or known, whether 379—which unconcerned about the dead surveying his handiwork, Dwyer then moved away from ammunition was exhausted. but the fire continued till the groaning and crying for water, up, the wounded lay in agony that ensued. The dead piled crushed in the blind stampede dead in hundreds, many were troops and without any speeches of the leaders when it had gathered. They were various estimates, fifteen to buildings with only one narrow to make an example and teach decided to disperse it by force. The martial law regime the hartal broken by military the Deputy Commissioner's Chowdhury, Harkishen Lal and three respected leaders of Lahore-Rambhaj Dutt Chowdhury, Harkishen Lal and Duni Chand, were invited to the Deputy Commissioner's house, arrested and deported. Martial Law was declared and the harat broken by military force. The martial law regime from 15th of April to 29th of May was a horrid tale of atrocious dealings—commandeering of transport, stopping of free distribution of foodstuffs, arrests and detentions by the summary courts, imprison—ment, stripes, public flogging, marching students 16 miles a day in the hot midday sun of May, etc. Even so eminent a scholar as the Minto Professor of Economics in the Calcutta University, Manchor Lal, was thrust into prison without cause shown, all with the deliberate purpose of humiliating and terrorising the people. In Kasur (near Lahore and Amritsar) on the 13th April the mob excited by the news from Amritsar committed arson and assault, on the 14th, proclaimed martial law. The horrors of Lahore and Amritsar were repeated. The military officer in charge exercised his ingenuity to impose fancy punishments. At Gujranwala bombs were thrown on a boarding house, machine guns were fired into villages and in the city to produce 'moral effect.' Indiscriminate arrests were made and people were subjected to humiliation, flogging and many indignities. The gruesome tale was repeated at numerous other places. The Panjaban was treated more or less as an enemy country newly conquered. Its people were taught not to dare challenge or criticize Government on pain of condign punishment. The English officials civil and military, appeared on the scene in their triumvirate, with the thin veneer of civilization suddenly scrubbed out. They were gripped by fear, scared by shadows, and behaved like animals at bay, inglorious and bloodthirsty. O'Dwyer, the wilful and overhearingmentor, gave up the pretension of the moral basis of British rule and confessed his belief in the naked rule of the sword. His myrmidons excelled each other in relating their misdeeds before the Commission of Enquiry and exhibited no sense of shame or remorse. "The Panjab was isolated, cut off from the rest of India; a thick veil seemed to cover it and hide it from the outside eyes," exclaimed Jawaharlal Nehru. But gradually the news percolated and India was convulsed. "Jallianwala Bagh kindled the conflagration throughout India." There was an outburst of condemnation from every side, Rabindranath Tagore's renunciation of the knighthood conferred upon him by the British Government was a grand gesture repudiating the ruler's title to be the dispensers of recognition and honour. Diplomats were made for the recall of O'Dwyer and Chelmsford. Indemnity for the prisoners was pressed and enquiry in the Panjaban was urgently, both in England and in India. In England on behalf of the Home Rule League and the Liberal Federation deputations of eminent Indians were at work, giving evidence before the Joint Parliamentary Committee. Among them were Vithalbhai Patel, Tilak, Bipin Chandra Pal, Mrs. Besant, Surendranath Banerjea, Tej Bahadur Sapru, Shrinivas Sastri and others. They impressed upon the Secretary of State the urgency of an enquiry into the recent events in order to pacify public opinion. Montagu knew that the policy of ruling India by the sword alone was impossible, because you can do anything with bayonets but sit on them. He realised that the government foreign or indigenous, could not rule a people for any length of time without the willing support of unquestioning acquiescence of a section of the effective classes of the people. Besides, he had a personal stake in the Indian affairs. He had worn himself out to process the Reforms and was naturally most anxious for their success. He made up his mind and in the Budget debate on May 22, gave a promise to hold an enquiry. He wrote to Chelmsford that "this method of government (O'Dwyerism) into the causes and into the measures taken to cope with these disturbances." But Montagu's misfortune was "that the powers that be in India—the services—are wholly against us", so he tried to persuade the Governor General, "Don't let us make the mistake of defending O'Dwyerism right or wrong. Nothing is so fatal to the British prestige in a developing country like India as a belief that there is no redress for mistakes, and, that whatever an official does, he will be backed, and not only that he will be backed, but his methods will be perpetuated." The Government of India stiffly opposed the proposal for an enquiry. But the Secretary of State had already committed himself and the Viceroy had no alternative but to yield. The Committee was announced on October 14, 1919, with Hunter as Chairman, four Englishmen, and three Indians-Setsodav, Sahibzada Sultan Ahmed Khan, and Jagat Narain, as members. The Committee examined a large number of witnesses including Dwyer, the martial law officers, army officers and civil officers, and many persons involved in the disturbances. The Government of the Panjaban placed at their disposal a large quantity of records, including the proceedings and orders of the Martial Law Courts and the Commissions. But the Committee was boycotted by the Congress "in view of the situation created by the refusal of the Government to accede Continued on page 31

EN 2/21
It is a common test for both IAS and IFOS (Indian Forest Service). Since there is a single prelims exam conducted for both the IAS and IFOS, the format of the preliminary exam has remained unaltered for at least the last 15 years. The questions asked in the previous years’ exams have been repeated every once in a while. Apart from these, questions are also taken from theory chapters conducted by UPSC for CAFF, NDA. Some questions from SSC exam are also asked. It is better, rather than practicing questions prepared by commercial coachings and websites, it is wiser to practice last years’ questions as they are relevant and they might be repeated.

VI. Strategy for CSAT:

CSAT is of qualifying nature now requiring only qualifying marks (i.e. 33% only). It is not made to devote too much time for CSAT. The best way of doing CSAT is to decide your strength and syllabus and do well in that area to score the qualifying marks. For example, if you are good in Current Affairs, focus on your strength and it will give you the minimum marks required to qualify. Similarly, if a particular part is your forte, use it to your advantage in the exam.

DECODING THE PRELIMS SYLLABUS

In the present topics of national and international importance:

This constitutes the most challenging part of the prelims syllabus in terms of coverage and time management. The problem here is that the current affairs per se, but the attitude of candidates towards it. Current affairs is to be done by all students. Day by day majority of candidates keep postponing it till the close of the prelims exam and then suddenly get panicked about it. If you take it seriously, you can do current affairs at the last moment because it requires enormous amount of information from diverse fields. For example, if you are good in History, you can use NCERT books. Two, ICSE books on geography from Std. VI to XII should be employed. One, all NCERT books on geography should be covered through newspapers and scientific magazines.

Strategy to score qualifying marks in Prelims:

One, a man who expects nothing is realistic to aim at complete command of prelims syllabus. What is required is a substantial command over the syllabus, general knowledge and current affairs. Usually, you need to collect the right option given in the question even though you might know about the scheme.

Science and Technology:

For best coverage of this section, a two pronged strategy should be employed. One, basic theories of physics, chemistry and biology must be buttressed by reading NCERT books on science. Two, applied science, (mostly part of history, geography and culture) should be covered through newspapers and scientific magazines.

Poity and Constitution:

Earlier, a large number of questions were asked from traditional areas like history, polity and economics. But now there are more questions on geography, environment, ecology, climate change, foreign affairs etc., one must also read NCERT books on science. Two, ICSE books on geography should be employed. One, all NCERT books on science are authentic and they might be repeated.

Well known facts count but less known facts also matter: No doubt, you need to know all the well known facts on topics like history, geography etc., but at the same time, you need to know about less known facts also because UPSC has a passion to test you on factual details asked in the exam. Therefore, you need to consult books beyond NCERT also.

V. Preparations beyond NCERT books: Mastering NCERT books is what everyone would suggest to crack civil services. But it is largely true also. But you can not expect all questions just from NCERT books which, though excellent in content, lack factual details asked in the exam. Therefore, you need to consult books beyond NCERT also.

The Jallianwala Bagh massacre was a calculated piece of inhumanity towards utterly innocent and unarmed men, including children, and unparalleled for its ferocity in the history of modern British administration.

The Government of India considered the Hunter Committee report and came to the conclusion that Dwyer's action at Jallianwala Bagh was indefensible, that he went beyond any reasonable requirement of the case and that he misconceived his duty. It was, therefore, considered unsafe to allow him to continue to hold his position. He was consequently retired from office on March 23, 1920.

A debate was raised in Parliament concerning Dwyer's case. Montagu defended the decision of the Government of India on the ground that Britain could not retain its hold over India by terrorism. Churchill supported the Indian Government and repudiated the theory that Dwyer had saved the Empire by his ruthlessness. He called the Jallianwala Bagh massacre "a monstrous event", "the greatest blot that has been placed upon it (English history) since the days gone by when we burned down Joan of Arc". Bonar Law condemned Dwyer. Yet when votes were taken as many as 129 voted in favour of Dwyer against 230 who supported the Government.

In the House of Lords the Conservatives including many retired Anglo-Indian officials, vindicated Dwyer by a majority vote. The Government, however, stuck to its decision, censured Dwyer and deprived him of his command.

This led to a reaction in his favour. A huge fund was raised—£26,000, which was presented to him with a sword to mark the approbation of his services by his admirers. In the meanwhile Gandhi shocked the violence in the Panjab (Amritsar, Lahore, Kasur, Gujranwala, etc.), Gujarat (Ahmedabad, Viramgam, Nasliad), and Bengal (Calcutta) complained with a lacerated heart, "I had called upon the people to launch upon civil disobedience before they had thus qualified themselves for it, and this mistake of mine seemed to me to be of a Himalayan magnitude." He announced his decision to suspend passive resistance.

Unfortunately little change was visible in the attitude of the Government. The Martial Law regime was prolonged on the plea that the Afghans were hostile and had started an attack on the border. This led to the resignation of Sankaran Nair from the membership of the Viceroy's Executive Council. An ordinance was made which delegated powers to the Panjabis Government whereby any offence committed on or after 30th March, 1919 could be transferred to the Martial Law Tribunal. Gandhi had already been externed from the Panjabis. C. F. Andrews who was deputed to visit the Panjabis and report was prohibited from entering. Later Eardley Norton, the lawyer, sent to defend the accused was similarly treated. Horniman, editor of the Bombay Chronicle, was deported from India for his criticism of the Panjabis Government. The Government of India felt serious a responsibility he assumed and he should have thought his Excellency was shocked by the violence in the Panjab (Amritsar, Lahore, Kasur, Gujranwala, etc.), Gujarat (Ahmedabad, Viramgam, Nasliad), and Bengal (Calcutta) complained with a lacerated heart, "I had called upon the people to launch upon civil disobedience before they had thus qualified themselves for it, and this mistake of mine seemed to me to be of a Himalayan on the political scene of the country. It opened up opportunities of education and government service for them and also gave them a right to vote. Dr. Ambedkar attended all the three Round Table Conferences in London and each time, forcefully projected his views in their interest. He exhorted the downtrodden sections to raise their living standards and to acquire as much political power as possible. After a while Dr. Ambedkar, organised the Independent Labour Party, participated in the provincial elections and was elected to the Bombay Legislative Assembly. During these days he stressed the need for abolition of the ‘Jagirdar’ system, for he realized that the castes, scheduled tribes and the depressed classes were given the right to have separate electorates. This was a part of the overall design of the British to divide and rule. Gandhiji wanted to defeat this design and went on a fast unto death to oppose it. On 24th September 1932, Dr. Ambedkar and Gandhiji reached an understanding, which became the famous Poona Pact. According to this Pact, in addition to the agreement on electoral constituencies, reservations were provided in Government jobs and legislative assemblies. The provision of separate electorate was dispensed with. The Pact carved out a clear and definite position for the downtrodden.

BABA SAHEB DR. BHIMRAO AMBEDKAR: A PROFILE

Dr. B. R. Ambedkar
Birth Anniversary 14 April

While Bhimrao was an ardent patriot on one hand, he was the saviour of the oppressed, the poor and the poor on the other. He fought for them throughout his life. In 1923, he set up the, ‘Bakhshikirti Hikarinja Sabha which was devoted to educating the depressed castes and culture amongst the downtrodden, improving the economic status and raising matters concerning their problems in the proper forums to focus attention on them and finding solutions to the same. The problems of the depressed castes were ancient, old and difficult to overcome. Their entry into temples was forbidden. They could not draw water from public wells and ponds. Their admission in schools was prohibited. In 1927, he led the Madhav March at the Chowdar Tank at Kolaba, near Bombay, to give women the right to draw water from the public tank where they burnt copies of the ‘Manusmriti’ publicly. This marked the beginning of the anticastric and antipriest movement and temple entry movement launched by Dr. Ambedkar in 1930 at Kalaram temple, Nasik is another landmark in the struggle for the right of social justice. In the meantime, Ramsay McDonald announced the ‘Communal Award’ as a part of his方案. In many communities including the ‘depressed classes’ were given the right to have separate electorates. This was a part of the overall design of the British to divide and rule. Gandhiji wanted to defeat this design and went on a fast unto death to oppose it. On 24th September 1932, Dr. Ambedkar and Gandhiji reached an understanding, which became the famous Poona Pact. According to this Pact, in addition to the agreement on electoral constituencies, reservations were provided in Government jobs and legislative assemblies.
